“ I will really miss you Dottie. You were my step daughter but to me my daughter. Now you will be my angel. I dont understand why god took you away from me at such a young age. I wish I could relive the mother daughter moments with you all over again. I do know they were fun times and again soon see you to relive those times. Im glad your no longer suffering and are my pretty angel now. Remember you yourself are a wonderful grandmother and mother and will be missed by many. Sorry to pat and the girls I wish I could be there. Stay Strong as if Dottie is still here with us all. We love you Dottie.##imported-begin##katherine Bailey##imported-end##

“ I'll always remember the bright smile on your face when you would see me. I remember ashley and I running around the house from room to room driving you and mom crazy. I know when my mom needed someone you were always there. Even though our lives changed and we moved apart our loves for one another still remained the same. I am so happy that god granted you and mom more times together. They may not had been the same as the old days. When you two were having the times of your lives however they were still cherishable moments you two were allowed together by the grace of god. Now we sit here sad but happy knowing your at peace and in a better place. I know you will now be a beautiful angel up in heaven looking down on us each and everyday. I will now thank you and know you will guide me through life in the right direction. Tell my grandma we miss her. Just like we miss you. Until than I cant wait till the day we meet again. I LOVE YOU###imported-begin###Felecia Taylor###imported-end###

“ I feel so blessed to have had one more day to share memories with you, it was nice to relive the story about the alley on Farragut, and I remember that conversation as if it was yesterday. Our mouths filled with bubble gum; we took from the garage from the vending machine man. As I sat there holding your hand in mine and laughing about good times that were made, I could not help but see you were ready to go home. On that day I knew in my heart you would find peace and I had to accept that you were ready for your peace. And to this day I promise our secrets will forever be kept. I love you, and I will treasure and hold the memories we made close and near until we make more.##imported-begin##Arlene Little Bit##imported-end##
