“ One of the most moral ,honest and deicated man to wife, family and friends that I have ever known. It was my greatest pleasure to call him a “friend “.

“ My Uncle Bill, So many words and thoughts I could share during the past 55 years he was in my life. His love for fishing and hunting, his skill with a mason trowel and a hammer, his genuine concern of the well being of his family are just a few. I feel the most profound I will hold dearly is his distinctive voice that could be detected in a room with a thousand others and the love it emitted.

Enjoy the fishing and hunting Red Britches.... I look forward to hearing that voice again.

I love you

“ Rodney Blythe. I am very sorry to hear of your loss. I think of Bill often and especially when in the woods. Bill was instrumental in developing my love for hunting when he took me on my first dove hunt more than 40 years ago. He may be gone but will not be forgotten.
